Hacettepe University, Institute of Public Health have been qualified for being a full member of EASOM (European Association of Schools of Occupational Medicine).

The European Association of Schools of Occupational Medicine (EASOM) exists to promote the highest standards of education and training in occupational medicine in Europe. This will be achieved through the exchange of knowledge, skills and experience of teaching and training between member schools.

The association attempts to achieve its aim by the following strategies:

Establishing and supporting institutions providing education and training in occupational medicine and occupational health.

Making available knowledge and information in occupational medicine and related fields, by means of publications, educational material and meetings on occupational medicine teaching.

Keeping an up to date overview of education and training programmes and curricula of member schools.

Contributing to the development of methods of testing and quality assurance of education and training in occupational medicine.

Encouraging the exchange of teachers, students and educational materials.

Initiating research in the field of development and evaluation of educational programmes, including continuing medical education in occupational medicine.

Co-operating with national, European and global organisations such as the EU, WHO, ICOH and ILO with regard to the different aspects of education and training in occupational medicine. EASOM shall attempt to ensure regional representation in its activities in order to be able to serve all its members throughout Europe.
